

Dear L.A. County Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to express my strong support for the La Brea Tar Pits Master Plan. The La Brea Tar Pits, home to the world's largest collection of Ice Age fossils and the only active urban excavation site, has been an unparalleled educational and cultural resource for over a century.

The proposed Master Plan represents a bold and exciting transformative vision. It will significantly enhance research and educational opportunities by doubling laboratory facilities, expanding exhibition spaces, and offering immersive, hands-on experiences for students to engage in real-time scientific discovery.

The plan also includes a reimagining of the surrounding grounds, creating a premier learning environment with educational displays, historical native plants, and new recreational spaces and amenities that will serve the entire community.

The Master Plan promises profound benefits for Los Angeles County, including increased access and educational opportunities for our diverse population, a meaningful economic boost, and the establishment of a world-class venue for public engagement with science. It also emphasizes the importance of preserving our planet in the face of Climate Change.

As an educator, I strongly urge you to approve this visionary plan to modernize and enhance the La Brea Tar Pits for generations to come.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Jennifer Herman
